1789 Restaurant®

Georgetown's Premier Food & Wine Experience

1789 Restaurant is the quintessential Washington, D.C. dining experience named for the year in which Georgetown University was founded. The restaurant was chosen by the readers of Gourmet magazine as one of America's Top Tables. Decorated with American antiques, period equestrian and historical prints, and Limoges china, its dining rooms offer comfortable surroundings in a renovated Federal house.

Middleburg Room

The Middleburg Room evokes images of the nearby Virginia hunt country. Architectural features of the room include a ceiling sheathed in barn siding from the New England countryside dating back to the 1800s and massive beams from a post-and-beam home in Vermont. The bay window at the east end of the room overlooks Prospect Street and residential Georgetown. The walls, partially covered with hand-planed pine boards, feature lithographs depicting colorful hunt scenes. The Middleburg Room, located on the third level, accommodates seated dinners up to 56 guests. It can be reserved with a $300 deposit and has a 60-day cancellation policy. There is a $100 room fee to book a private party. There is no food & beverage minimum requirement for dinner.

Garden Room

French doors separate the Garden Room from the restaurant. The floor to ceiling windows covered with lattice and wood blinds, along with the floral prints decorating the walls, create a light and airy dining room. The Garden Room, located on the second level, accommodates private dinners up to 18 people. It can be reserved with a $300 deposit and has a 30-day cancellation policy. There is a $100 room fee and no food & beverage minimum requirement for dinner.

F.Scott's

F. Scott's is an art deco gem named after F. Scott Fitzgerald -the embodiment of the sophisticated, high-living style of the Jazz Age. The private bar houses a stunning display of museum-quality travel posters from the twenties and thirties, original artwork by The New York Times cartoonist Al Hirschfield, cut glass blocks from the Chrysler Building in New York and art deco stained glass windows. F. Scott's accommodates up to 125 people for standing cocktail receptions. Buffet dinners are also available for smaller groups. It can be reserved for a reception up to four hours with a $300 deposit and has a 60-day cancellation policy. There is a $2000 food & beverage minimum of which $1000 must be in food.

John Carroll Room

The John Carroll Room captures the city's history with Currier and Ives prints from George Washington days as President, paintings and prints of Georgetown University, and early maps of the city. Beautiful American antique furniture, silver and wooden early American relics and an elegant fireplace complete the setting. The John Carroll Room accommodates up to 60 people for daytime brunches or luncheons.

The John Carroll Room can be reserved for private daytime events with a $300 deposit and has a 60-day cancellation policy. There is a $1000 minimum for food and beverage. There is a $100 room fee to book a private party.
